HOLIDAY SOCIAL!

It's that holiday season again... which means the annual Holiday Social at the December meeting. There will be door prizes and wine, cheese, music, and snacks will be available. Attendees should feel free to make a contribution of their favorite holiday treat (or tune!). The social will begin at 7:30 pm on the usual date (December 12) and place (Spring Valley Masonic Hall). Come join the holiday spirit, but be prepared for something a little different this time:

Henry Martin, our "artist in residence" from Jay Peak, has offered to auction the two paintings he made there last year as a fundraiser. Framed, these would sell for over $600 in a gallery! So come out and bring your checkbook—one of these could be yours!! You can see more of Henry's

ACTIVITIES & TRIPS

SKIING

Ski season has arrived, with several areas in Vermont opening in early November. Let's hope for a better start to the season than last year!

TRIP UPDATES:

The Breckinridge trip is full; be sure to get your reservations in for this year's other ski trips — see page 9 for the schedule.

There is one change to note on the schedule. Due to lack of a trip leader, the family weekend has been changed to a cross-country ski weekend. The club historically has had a strong XC following, and it has been several years since there was an "official" XC weekend trip. Lets see if this tradition can be revived! Plan on day trips on the Catamount Trail, generally within a half hour drive of the lodge. Rentals should be available from the XC area down the hill at the entrance to Mt Snow if needed. Think of all the money you will save by not paying holiday lift ticket rates!

Folks who had been planning on attending the family weekend are still welcome, but should be aware of the change in focus of the trip.

LIFT TICKETS:

Mount Snow, now under the management of Peak Resorts, is again offering group rates to the club. You MUST present a club ID and a photo ID when purchasing lift tickets. Your club ID will be checked against the BRSC membership roster, so be sure to get your ID from Mary Ann Popma at a meeting or by sending her a self-addressed stamped envelope. Lift tickets may only be purchased at the Group Sales Office in the Sundance base lodge. Tickets may be purchased from 8.30 am to 12 noon Monday thru Friday and 7.30 am to 12 noon Saturday, Sunday, and holidays. A member may purchase of to 4 lift tickets on his or her card, but must pay for all of them. Adult lift tickets at the group rate are $54 weekends, $39 mid-week, and $63 on holidays during the main season.

You can also purchase discounted lift ticket vouchers for a number of ski areas in Pennsylvania, Vermont, & New York from the Eastern PA Ski Council. The order form for the vouchers is on page 5.

The Buck Ridge gift basket, with a PA / VT theme, placed third at the EPSC Winterfest, bringing in $147. Half of the proceeds will go to benefit adaptive skiing programs. Thanks to all who donated!

HIKING, BIKING, & BOATING

Our fall short hikes, bikes, & paddles have ended for the season... look for them to begin again in the spring. The boating season ended on a good note with a raft trip on the mighty Tohickon, courtesy of Dan Jones—story on page 4.

The onset of colder weather also means that indoor rolling sessions, sponsored by the Philadelphia Canoe Club, will be getting underway at St Joe's pool. Instruction will be given on Sunday mornings from 8.30 am to 11.30 am. There will be practice sessions on Saturday nights from 7.00 pm to 10.00 pm beginning January 5, 2008, although there will be 3 Sunday sessions for the first three weekends in December.

Complete details on pool regulations, costs, and more are available on the PCC website at www.philacanoe.org/rolling_schedule.html. If you don't have internet access, contact Dan Jones at 856-429-1585 and he will send you details. For any questions Dan can't help with, contact Rosemary Rau, the Pool Ranger, at 215-743-6938.

PUTTING A WRAP ON THE BOATING SEASON.... RAFTING THE TOHICKON

Dan Jones contacted me to fill a spot in his raft for the Tohickon release on November 3. Never having been in a raft, and it being many years since I last boated the Tohickon, I took him up on his offer.

The day dawned gray, damp, & windy as tropical storm Noel passed through. However, it certainly did not deter the many boaters that descend upon the Tohickon during a water release. The scene there certainly has changed over the years... there were vehicles from as far as Indiana, & there was a steady procession of boats down the creek. There were even vendors at the Point Pleasant take-out!

This was my first time ever in a raft, & although I kept wanting to drop into eddies & find a surfing wave, it was certainly a lot of fun. Despite the fact that the creek was flowing at a nice level, we still managed to get stuck a couple of times—at the worst hang-up, we all had to pile into the bow just above a foaming hole to get off. Sorry Dan—I hope it wasn't due to my inexperience in the bow!

Although I had my camera, it stayed inside its dry bag so all I managed were photos from the put-in & take-out. At some point during the day, the skies cleared & the sun came out. Being focused on the water, I never noticed it until the end at which point the sun was much appreciated. A beautiful day on a beautiful creek—a good way to end the boating season. Thanks Dan!

If you cannot attend the meeting but are interested in placing a bid on one of the paintings, we suggest the following: write down the painting (sunset or goblin) and the maximum you would be interested in bidding. Mail or email this to the editor (see p. 2 for address). Your bid will be entered in $10 or $25 increments (depending upon the bidding) up to your maximum. In the event of a tied bid, the person present at the meeting will win. If the tie is between two absent bidders, the earliest post-mark or email date will win. What an opportunity!
